MAY IS ASIAN/PACIFIC AMERICAN HERITAGE MONTH

Oliver Chin

In May, the United States celebrates the cultures and contributions of Asian/Pacific Americans (APA). On May 7, 1990, President George H.W. Bush issued Presidential Proclamation 6130 to officially recognize this annual commemoration (<https://asianpacificheritage.gov>, <https://apaheritage.org>).

In 2018, the phrase "Asian American" had its fiftieth anniversary. In 1968, students at the University of California (UC) at Berkeley coined the term when they founded the Asian American Political Alliance (AAPA). Fueled by the 1960s Civil Rights Movement, AAPA demanded legal, political, and social equality for Asians in America too. In 1969, San Francisco State University and UC Berkeley, Davis, and Los Angeles, founded the first college-level Asian American Studies programs in the country.

Now APAs are the fastest growing group of American immigrants. Comprising 6% of the US population, APAs are 16% of Californians. Filipinos are 25% of California's APAs. In San Francisco County, APAs are 36% of residents. The US Census estimates that people of color will become the majority of the US population by 2050.

225 Teresita - Kirsten Swan & Julian Hjortshoj

MIRALOMA PARK'S GARDEN OF THE SEASON

We Have a Winner!

The majority of votes were cast for the garden at 225 Teresita. Congratulations to the homeowners who have created such a beautiful and popular garden! Kirsten Swan and Julian Hjortshoj hired Patrick Lannan Designs to help with the landscaping plan and choices of drought-resistant, low-water plants. "After that, it's been hands-on to maintain the yard. The garden's been a good outlet during the pandemic and we hope the neighbors get a little lift as they pass by the princess bush and red hook, which are perennials in bloom."

THE LAST YEAR

Bob Carroll

I'm embarrassed. I almost did not recognize him.

I remember when social distancing and mask wearing kicked in last year as "shelter in place" crashed into our lives. My wife and I walk daily around the neighborhood. How would I recognize people - the walkers, runners, kids, dog walkers, delivery people et al - if I could not see half of their face? And it was a problem, at least at first for me. I know I passed people I've known for some time, often years, and thought "Wow, another new person in the neighborhood." And how would I survive with that constant tug on my ears from the ear straps? One person I never failed to recognize was the great UPS guy. Yeah, the truck and his short brown pants were obvious but it was also the tan line on his legs near his knees that was a giveaway. Kind of faded during the cold winter months.

The early masks were those medical light blue ones but it didn't take long before images and words appeared on masks. My wife, Christine, made ours out of a batik material, and she even inserted filters between two layers of material. (Let me tell you there is nothing like living with a former career public health official during a pandemic.) I think our masks became a new way for people to recognize us. "Yep, that's Bob not some axe murderer." It helps too, that my wife is beautiful, and that I'm 6' 4". Lots of masks but then as days and weeks at home turned to months at home, more and more people seemed to be walking - people we knew "before" but also many who took to walking for "stay at home" exercise, some to just get

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Patti Moran

Hello everyone in Miraloma! I am thrilled to be serving as the MPIC Board President, rotating in from the VP role, and now serving as President for your Miraloma Park Improvement Club (MPIC) for these next 2 months. As the newest member of the MPIC Board, I welcome this opportunity to serve our neighborhood and this unique community within San Francisco.

A bit of sharing: I was raised just north of SF and lived most of my adult life in San Francisco. My Mom and her ancestors were raised in SF – 5 generations deep. I have many historical connections and also some wonderful coincidences of being 5th generation to the area. My relatives lived through the 1906 SF earthquake, fleeing the fires of the Mission District to survive and raise their family thereafter. My first job post college turned out to be steps away from the building where my Uncle Jack spent much of his career in finance in the South Park area of SF. A childhood friend's first cooking job at the now retired, award-winning Hawthorne Lane restaurant in SoMa was in the converted building where my Dad spent much of his career as a civil engineer! Ah the stories these SF walls, buildings, and pathways can tell about life as a resident of SF. And maybe perhaps shed some insights as to what may be next.

I moved to Miraloma in 2012 and could not have anticipated what a welcome I would receive from my friendly neighbors. When I told friends and family where I moved to, the near unanimous response from all was, "Where's Miraloma?" I even thought about making t-shirts similar to the 'got milk?' slogan used by the California Milk Board. What I couldn't anticipate is what a gem of a neighborhood I had landed into people wise, and that everyone in SF should know what is going on in Miraloma!

In my occasional volunteer work with the Los Palms Community Garden, I learned more about the far-reaching and important efforts of MPIC, the Block Champions, the NERT programs in Miraloma, and what the MPIC Board and their committees were doing to support this neighborhood. When the pandemic hit last March, I raised my hand to get more involved as a volunteer with the Resilient Miraloma committee of MPIC to help support those more home bound as the shelter-in-place took its toll for weeks (and then in turn months). Fast forward, I was honored to be asked to run for the Board and now I hope to serve all of us for the next few months as President.

There are several items in this month's issue of Miraloma Life to especially highlight and I encourage you all to take a look. The first is the proposed changes to the SF Muni 36 bus line and combining it with the Muni 52 bus line. The second is an upcoming Miraloma Park Improvement Club (MPIC) Safety Committee Town Hall scheduled for May 11 at 6:00pm. Don't miss these important updates and participate if you are interested.

Our recent past presidents Cary and Darlene have asked and thanked those who have joined MPIC in support of the Miraloma Life newsletter. We thank all of you so much who have donated a little extra to help fund the printed version of this valuable newsletter. Contributions for the newsletter should be sent to MPIC, 350 O'Shaughnessy Blvd., San Francisco, CA 94127.

So to sum it up, I have an ask as the MPIC President. My ask is that you consider renting the MPIC Clubhouse for your gatherings for meetings, parties and rentals down the road and into next year. Check it out! It is a great space to consider! And to support your local non-profit too. Rental income for the MPIC Clubhouse is MPIC's primary financial support stream and we would love to welcome new faces and activities when the SF Public Health Guidelines allow us to do so safely. So consider the MPIC Clubhouse in your future party and meeting plans! We would love it!

President's notes:

The MPIC board meets the first Thursday of each month at 7:00pm and is open to all members to attend. Currently we are meeting on Zoom. If you are interested in attending a meeting or if you would like to bring an issue before the board, please email miralomapark@gmail.com for instructions on joining a meeting or getting your issue placed on the agenda. Along with our website www.miralomapark.org we are now on Instagram at @miralomapark. If you don't have or want your own Instagram account, you are welcome to submit photos to miralomapark@gmail.com. Looking forward to your take on the neighborhood!

San Francisco Conservation Corps at the MPIC Native Plant Garden

MPIC NATIVE PLANT GARDEN ENHANCEMENT WORK BEGINS

Dan Liberthson

Improvement and expansion of the native plant garden in front of the MPIC Clubhouse was among the proposals approved by the District 7 community for funding under Supervisor Norman Yee's Participatory Budget program. I helped establish this garden about 25 years ago and then was able to expand it with the help of volunteers and donations from the California Native Plant Society (CNPS) and Miraloma Park neighbors, and a grant from the mayor's office under Willie Brown. The concept was to plant mostly species that grew in Glen Park across O'Shaughnessy Blvd. After proposing the garden improvement project back in 2019 and having it selected and funded, I am pleased to report that the work has at last begun.

The design for the garden renovation was developed and donated by Elliot Goliger of Artisans Landscape Inc. in San Francisco, who is also voluntarily supervising and advising on the work. Elliot is a member of the CNPS and a specialist in native plant landscaping with many years of local experience. Starting on March 29, a crew from the San Francisco Conservation Corps, directed by Damon Spigelman of SF-PUC, began removing soil from what will be a 4-ft wide decomposed gravel pathway leading from the parking lot to the central area of the garden. From a turnaround circle at the end of this main pathway, a smaller dirt path will wind westward among the garden plantings. The crew also removed excess soil and trimmed vegetation from the surrounding area, the drainage culvert as well as cut back weeds and applied ground covering in the adjacent clubhouse parking lot area.

This design will give people with limited mobility access to the interior of the garden via the main packed gravel path, while also allowing walkers to wander widely among the plants on the dirt path. Weeding, relocation of some existing plants, and path construction will continue in the spring and summer, to be followed by new plantings this coming winter and early spring of next year. Finally, educational signage will be placed and the garden will assume its role as a premier opportunity for everyone to appreciate and learn about our native plants.

NEW PROPOSED BUS SERVICE TO MIRALOMA PARK: ROUTE 36/52

MPIC

San Francisco MTA (MUNI) is anticipating restarting bus service to Miraloma Park in May and is asking residents for our response to this restoration of service. The new route is a combination of former Routes 36 and 52. (See map for the new route of the 36/52.) There will be 8 hours of bus service, such as from 7am to 3pm. The bus will come every 1/2 hour. The MTA wants to know the best time to start service, (e.g., 7am, 8am, 9am).

Send your comments about the proposed start time to the MPIC at miralomapark@gmail.com. Do this as soon as out of the house, many for transportation, and lots and lots of times to walk dogs. It was interesting. What had been simple nods between walkers began to morph into something a lot more neighborly: "How are you doing?" or "So, are you driving your parents crazy, or are they driving you nuts?" or the uncertain "Everything okay? I haven't seen you in 2 weeks."

I learned there are all kinds of other ways to ID the many walkers. There are obvious things ... our jackets, jogging pants, hats and caps, masks, height, time of day. Often, what helped were the dogs.

"Oh, I know that mutt, and the way it sniffs my legs it knows me. Hey, how's it going?" (I'm not certain when "Hey" replaced "Hello" but listen the next time you are out.) We've lived and worked outside of the country several times. Our son was a great conversation starter in small, out of the way places. We don't have a dog but they are good conversation starters too.

We are approaching a time when we will not need masks. I'm looking forward to that time. I want to see the bottom half of your face: the smile that is often there, the lips forming words. It will be the return of a communication tool which has been hidden for months. ... but there may be a transition period.

The other morning I saw someone getting out of a car whom I often see walking in the neighborhood. He is a joy to speak with, and we always stop and talk. But was that person across the small street him? He did not have a mask on as he got out of his car, and his mustache, it was so dark. Do I have the right guy? And then he spoke and I recognized his wonderful voice.

"Hey, how's it going?"

HAVE YOU NOTICED?

MPIC

Have you noticed? The tennis court at Miraloma Playground at the corner of Omar Way and Sequoia Way was redone last year. With a much improved playing surface and fresh paint, it is already becoming a much-loved feature of the playground, along with the basketball court, now that pandemic restrictions are being eased.

Good news: You can reserve your spot up to two days in advance at SF Recreation and Parks website. Rec and Park also had the grand opening of the newly designed Lisa & Douglas Goldman Tennis Center in Golden Gate Park, on March 3rd, with 21 lighted courts, including a dedicated Pickleball Court. May is Asian/Pacific Heritage Month ...

However, since the global spread of COVID-19 in late 2019, anti-Asian racism has spiked. Stop AAPI Hate has recorded nearly 4,000 assaults on APAs; sadly, 44% occurred in California. By May 2020, the Center for Public Integrity reported that 30% of Americans witnessed someone blaming APAs for the pandemic, and that 60% of APAs had seen such behavior. APA doctors and nurses have been harassed by the patients they helped.

Since the 1600s, Asians have challenged discrimination in North America. San Francisco's Chinatown is the oldest in America and remains one of the largest. Following the 1849 Gold Rush, it was originally circumscribed as a ghetto. In 1910, Angel Island became a detention center to deter mostly Chinese immigrants.

APA activism has advanced rights for all Americans. In 1859, San Francisco opened a public school at night for the Chinese. But superintendent James Denman wanted it closed since educating Chinese was "almost hopeless" because "the prejudices of caste and religious idolatry are so indelibly stamped upon their character." In 1870, California decreed that only blacks and American Indians deserved segregated public education. Denman shuttered the Chinese school, denying education to a generation of children.

The 1882 Chinese Exclusion Act was the first federal law to bar immigration to an entire nationality. But in 1885, Chinese American protests led to the California Supreme Court decision in Tape v. Hurley: Chinese students had the right to attend public schools. San Francisco reopened the segregated Chinese school. In 1997, Spring Valley's principal Ms. Lonnie Chin said, "A hundred years ago I would not have been able to go to school here....Jennie Hurley, the school principal, stood at the door to bar Mamie Tape from entering. Today, I, a Chinese American, am the principal, and it is my role to stand at the gate and welcome all children."

Landmark legal cases include:

- Yick Wo v. Hopkins (1886): the US Supreme Court ruled that people could not be racially discriminated against in the enforcement of laws, and guaranteed non-citizens protection under the Constitution.
- United States v. Wong Kim Ark (1897): secured the right of Birthright Citizenship, as stipulated in the Constitution's Fourteenth Amendment.
- Lau v. Nichols (1973): affirmed that public schools must provide supplemental English classes to non-English speaking students, as per the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

World War II, the Korean War, and the Vietnam War impacted APA residents and immigrants in San Francisco. In 1942, President Franklin Roosevelt signed Executive Order 9066: this led to the internment of 110,000 Japanese Americans. Afterward, Japantown had to be reclaimed and rebuilt.

San Francisco's APA milestones include:

- 1924: the Chinese school was renamed Commodore Stockton.
 - In 1927, its first Chinese teacher was Alice Fong Yu.
- 1940: Bruce Lee was born in SF Chinatown's Chinese Hospital.
- 1948: diver Victoria Manalo Draves: the first APA and Filipino to win an Olympic Gold Medal.
 - In 2006, the city named a SOMA park after her.
- 1977: Gordon Lau: the first APA on the Board of Supervisors.
 - In 1998, Commodore Stockton School took his name.
- 1996: Fred Lau the first APA police chief.
- 2004: Heather Fong: the first APA woman to lead a major city's police department.
- 2008-9: Giants baseball pitcher Tim Lincecum won back-to-back Cy Young Awards. His mother Rebecca is Filipina. Lincecum won three World Series championships.
- 2010: Ed Lee: the first APA mayor.
- 2020: Paul Miyamoto: the first APA Sheriff for a California county.

Today APAs influence San Francisco's culture and economy, from cuisine, education, and art to tourism, small businesses, and hi-tech. The city's Lunar New Year parade is the largest outside of Asia.

Together, we must continue to support multicultural families, friends, and neighbors. Each generation of children increasingly recognize that fostering diversity enriches everyone's lives.

Oliver Chin founded Immedium (www.immedium.com), which has published the children's books Tales from the Chinese Zodiac, The Octonauts, and Awesome Asian Americans: 20 Stars Who Made America Amazing.

TIP FROM MPIC SAFETY COMMITTEE:

REMOVE YOUR GARAGE DOOR OPENERS FROM YOUR VEHICLES

MPIC Safety Committee

There have been several incidents in San Francisco, including Miraloma Park, in which vehicle were broken into, and garage door openers were taken. The remotes were then utilized to access the victim's garage, and in some cases, entry extended to the residence.

In the past, we have seen this occur, when a car is parked in front of the residence or in the driveway. However, recently a victim was shopping at the Manila Market on Mission Street, when his vehicle was broken into, and the garage remote was taken. While the victim was shopping, his home was being entered through the garage, and a burglary occurred. These perpetrators are becoming more and more brazen, as someone was home at the time of the burglary.

Although this incident occurred near the Excelsior, it could easily occur while shopping at any of our local markets. Please remove your garage door opener from your vehicles.
